Position description

The Berkeley Law International Human Rights Law Clinic (IHRLC) seeks applications for a Clinic Supervising Staff Attorney.

Under the supervision of the Clinic Director, the Supervising Attorney's general responsibilities include training and supervising students in client representation; working on the clinic's docket of projects and cases, managing one or more legal cases or projects independently (i.e., without a co-supervisor); and performing varied administrative and other tasks to assist in Clinic's and Clinical Program's operation.

IHRLC advances human rights at home and abroad through litigation, documentation, evidence-based policy work, and client-centered advocacy on a range of cases and urgent issues. One of the oldest human rights clinics in the country, the clinic has pioneered a client-centered, multidisciplinary, collaborative approach to its work. Students hold perpetrators of mass violence accountable in international and domestic courts, fight for justice for migrants at the border and immigrants in our community, and protect human rights defenders under threat from authoritarian regimes.

IHRLC is committed to preparing law students from diverse backgrounds and providing first-rate legal services to underrepresented individuals, marginalized communities, and public interest organizations. The Clinical Program is committed to building an equitable and inclusive faculty and staff to teach and work in a multicultural and antiracist learning environment. The law school provides support for Supervising Attorneys to attend conferences that advance their professional development goals and interests.

DUTIES

Under the supervision of the Clinic Directors, the Supervising Attorney will be responsible for:

Clinical Supervision and Advocacy (80%)

- Train, teach, and supervise six to eight clinic students per semester
- Manage clinic projects and cases and vet new clinic projects and cases
- Develop and maintain clinic relationships with clients, partners, co-counsel, and other stakeholders
- Travel to offsite meetings as needed to work on clinic matters (often with students)
- Attend and assist in teaching of the weekly clinic seminar on an as-needed basis

Manage the clinic docket during summers, winter break, and faculty leaves

Administrative Duties (15%)

- Helping maintain clinic and client files, course materials, website, and social media feeds
- Organize programmatic events, such as conferences, workshops and speaker series
- Promote the clinic to students and other constituencies
- Engage in media relations and development
- Serve on Clinical Program and law school committees

Speak at public events and with the press, and otherwise participating in professional networking, training, and development activities

Other Duties as Assigned (5%)

Perform other duties as needed

UC Field Work Supervisors are academic appointees in an organized bargaining unit and are exclusively represented by American Federation of Teachers - Unit 18.
