The University of Arizona (U of A) invites nominations and applications for the position of Dean of the James E. Rogers College of Law (College of Law). This is a pivotal opportunity for a visionary and strategic leader to guide one of the nation's most innovative public law schools into its next era of excellence and impact.

A Carnegie R1 institution and member of the Association of American Universities (AAU), the University of Arizona is recognized as a top-tier public research university, serving more than 56,000 students across a vibrant academic community. Located in Tucson, a culturally rich and dynamic city, the university fosters cutting-edge scholarship, interdisciplinary collaboration, and artistic expression.

The College of Law is a cornerstone of the university's academic excellence, with a legacy spanning more than 100 years. Its rigorous and forward-looking JD program prepares students for success across a broad spectrum of legal careers. The curriculum emphasizes experiential learning, personalized instruction, and strong employment outcomes, all while maintaining a commitment to affordability, resulting in significantly lower graduate debt compared to many peer institutions.
